All Students: Please be prepared to discuss your summer reading books on the first day of school. You may be assessed on the basics of the book(s): setting, main characters, plot, and themes.

Rising 11th Additional Summer Reading: The Literary Analysis

During a Trinity student's junior year, all students will write a literary analysis research paper. You must choose ONE of the books from the American Literature Choices listed below to read over the summer as the basis for literary research in the fall. My advice is to become intimately familiar with the book. When you return to school in the fall, you should be familiar with the book's plot, characters, setting, major themes, mood, and tone.

Summer Requirements:

- 1) You MUST annotate as you read. Annotations WILL be checked in August. Mark significant passages, write a quick summary sentence or two after each chapter so that you can easily find quotes to support your thesis when you begin to write, mark beautiful language, literary devices, meaningful passages, etc. You will need quotes from your book for the literary analysis, so it will save you a tremendous amount of time next year if you annotate as you read.
- 2) For each chapter of your book, highlight in yellow one significant quote. Highlight a quote that is meaningful, is beautifully written, is an example of a literary device, or is an example of the novel's theme, etc. This will be extremely helpful and save a tremendous amount of time as you write next year.
- 3) Email me no later than July 1 to let me know which book you have chosen.
